About Relationships Australia Victoria

Relationships Australia Victoria (RAV) provides family and relationship support services across Melbourne and Victoria.

With more than 70 years' experience, our vision is for positive, respectful, safe and fulfilling relationships for all Australians. We are committed to inclusivity and providing safe, inclusive and accessible services for all people.

Relationships Australia Victoria acknowledges the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander peoples as the Traditional Owners of the lands and waterways of Australia.

We support Aboriginal people's right to self-determination and culturally safe services.

We recognise the lifelong impacts of childhood trauma. We recognise those who had children taken away from them.

What are Redress Support Services?

RAV is funded by the Australian Government Department of Social Services to provide Redress Support Services. We can offer free and confidential support to anyone making, or considering making, an application through the National Redress Scheme.

What is the National Redress Scheme?

The National Redress Scheme is the Australian Government's response to the Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse. The Scheme offers acknowledgement and support to people who:

- experienced institutional child sexual abuse before 1 July 2018, and
- were born before 30 June 2010, and
- are Australian citizens or permanent residents.

Redress is an alternative to seeking compensation through the courts. The Scheme offers three components of Redress:

- access to counselling
- a Redress payment
- acknowledgement and recognition, for those who want it, through a direct personal response (a direct apology) from the institution responsible for the abuse.

The National Redress Scheme commenced on 1 July 2018. Applications for the Scheme will be accepted until 30 June 2027.

If you would like more information about the Scheme, please visit www.nationalredress.gov.au or contact the National Redress Scheme by calling 1800 737 377.

How we can help

Deciding whether to apply for the National Redress Scheme can be difficult. Redress Support Services can assist you with this decision and refer you as needed to other relevant services.

We can offer trauma-informed support to assist with your decision making and to ensure that you understand all of the options that are available to you.

We can provide practical and emotional support including:

- providing information about the National Redress Scheme and answering your questions
- assistance to complete a National Redress Scheme application, including writing your victim impact statement, and support and advocacy throughout the process
- supportive counselling to help you to manage the emotional impact of the application process
- practical and emotional support for your family and loved ones
- connections with, and referrals to, other services, including legal and financial counselling services, and personal or family therapy
- assistance to understand the outcome of your National Redress Scheme application.

What do I do next?
